My children and I think the best free online dance classes, lessons, tutorials, training, shows and resources for school-aged children are (in no particular order): You don't know which one to choose? Are you more interested in knowing which one will actually teach your child to dance or which will get your child's attention long enough for you to have a hot coffee or a prep dinner? Read on for our review of each, what age group we think the resource is best for and whether it is a long dance or educational tutorial. Being free - few of the following resources are real dance lessons in the traditional sense. There are online dance programs and DVDs that you can order and download, but you have to pay for these and we will have an article about them here soon. And if you're after links and videos for a preschooler or toddler, we've covered you in our article Best Free Online Dance Classes and tutorials for preschoolers and toddlers that you'll open for you in a new tab to see later.1 Move Dance LearnClick here to go straight to a playlist on Youtube dance classes by Move Dance Learn. Don't forget to subscribe to receive notifications when new tutorials go up! GENERAL INFOWhen the pandemic hit in 2020, I wanted to help in some way. I knew that many people were going to be stuck at home with their children and would need some quality and educational screen time that would also go their kids on the move. As I wrote, researched and published this particular article in early 2019, about a year before the application was actually there for that, I knew that there really wasn't a lot of quality content for the kids out there that matched that goal. And so because I love teaching and was a professional dancer, a dance teacher and a primary school teacher before becoming a mother of 4 children (some of whom you get to see in the videos) I decided to create a series of free online dance and movement classes for children. They were initially aimed at toddlers and preschoolers, but when I tested them on my children, they all loved joining in. Lessons involve warming up and cooling off and in between, I explore Creative dance and movement and even play a game at the end to take into account what we learned. The lessons were originally part of the Youtube channel Dance Parent 101, but I have since renamed them move dance learn, and I'm trying to move them all to the new channel, so if you like this lesson and go through all the lessons on Move Dance learn, try the Youtube Dance Parent 101 where you can find a little more! OUR AVISThis lessons are based on movements and activities that you will find in a live and creative dance class and are similar to what I teaching in a school or classroom. Children learn to improvise and create movement with their bodies based on themes that have been selected to ignite the imagination. Learning results are provided as well as an article on www.movedancelearn.com with additional educational links and learning ideas that can be explored from this one online dance class! Best for all Kids.Supervision: Put it on and go! Instruction method: Instruction and Follow the long tutorials2. The Ballet CoachGENERAL INFOLe Ballet Coach also known as Sarah Du-Feu is a channel where Sarah has been streaming live classes for ballet students of all ages. Sarah was a professional dancer in the English National Ballet, but soon decided that teaching was her passion and is a ballet teacher with her own students and school, but recently provided free lessons on her Youtube channel to ensure that everyone is able to continue dancing, even if they are unable to get a dance lesson. OUR EXAMENWhat I really like is that it does lessons specifically for different ages and ability levels and you can clearly see to whom the lesson is intended on the vignette and description. Because she's filming them live, during the replay, you have to wade through the beginning where she says hello, but if you want an authentic lesson experience for free, then it's pretty close to getting one. Sarah is a great teacher and I highly recommend these lessons! Best for all kids - just find the best video for your age. Supervision: Put it on and out Instruction method: educational tutorials3. Kidz BopClick here to access an organized list of Kidz Bop Tutorial Dance videos! GENERAL INFOKidz Bop is a great YouTube channel with lots of dancing along videos and some dance tutorials to popular music - just look for dance along or tutorial in their channel and you'll get a good range of lessons. Some videos are tutorials in the sense that each step is broken down and taught before being run, but others dance along and easy enough for children to simply follow learn through repetition. In the about section on their Youtube page, they write in addition to singing about kidz bop releases, these young artists star in national ADS KIDZ BOP TV and music videos, create content for children on YouTube and host KIDZ BOP Radio on SiriusXM (Channel 77).' OUR EXAMENThis great in these lessons is that they are taught by children for children and as a parent, I feel I can confidently allow my children to watch and follow without my constant follow-up ensure that what they see and learn is appropriate for their age. It also motivates my kids to get up and dance and promotes a growing mindset because if these kids can do it, why can't I and maybe I can't do it yet, but when I'm a little older like these kids, I'll be able to do it too! They have also recently started to bring out daily dance breaks that are about an hour that are full of dance dance live teaching by the kidz bop kidz! Best for all schoolchildren 5 - 15Supervision: Put it on and out instructional method: Follow along and some educational tutorials4. Go NoodleGENERAL INFOGo Noodle is a treasure trove of online movements and mindfulness videos for children. They have a guided dance playlist on YouTube that currently includes 60 videos, although recently I've seen that some of them have been turned to private. Go Noodle also offers a lot of extra free content on its website and also has a more plan go noodle for those interested in some educational extras. Their YouTube About profile actually shows that 3 out of 4 schools in the U.S. use Go Noodle for brain breaks and to get shaking and shaking when needed. They are proud to describe their content as turning screen time into active time and as being able to allow the whole family to exercise together. OUR WARNING My older children regularly go home delirious about the fun movement lessons they do at school. Go Noodle is a lot of fun and I find myself getting involved in some of the dances my kids love. You should try their Moose Tube videos which are stupid and a lot of fun to do. Best for kids aged 3-15Supervision: Put on and out (if you can as they are a lot of fun to do!) Instruction method: Follow the long tutorials5. Cosmic Kids YogaClick here to access an organized list of Cosmic Kids videos just like that! So not technically a dance lesson, but a form of exercise many dancers do INFO GENERALJaime from Cosmic Kids Yoga takes your child through a series of yoga poses and movements as she tells well-known stories. There is a vast library of videos and playlists with instructional videos on the right technique for various poses being about two minutes in length compared to yoga stories that are a perfect half hour or more each! OUR EXAMENI have found that movements change quite quickly, making it interesting for older children, but can be difficult for young children to follow. Although perhaps a little on top for the adult eye, the colorful backgrounds create an engaging viewing for your child. I find that I have to remind my children to follow and follow sometimes because they are distracted by the story told. That being said, they are usually engaged with the yoga lesson until the end letting me get the dinner prepared and they exercise some energy while doing so. Best for children 12 and under. Supervision: Put it on and out for the stories (you may need to remind young children to keep up the pace and not just and watch), but if you look at the educational tutorials, it's a good idea to stay with your child and help them achieve the right body positions. Instruction method: Follow along and short educational tutorials6. Just DanceGENERAL INFOJust Dance is a console game for PlayStation, Wii, etc. It uses a sensor to determine if your child is copying the dancers to the rhythm of the music and is moving body in the same general directions as the dancers on your screen. A fun free option is to go to the YouTube channel Just Dance and copy and follow without the game aspect. OUR AVISFor a full review, go to our Just Dance resource page which will open in a new window for you. We bought Just Dance 2020 and four moving controllers as a Christmas gift last year (we also got the PlayStation VR pack that comes with the camera) and realized that you can also buy more songs online! Just a word of warning - Just Dance is based on the use of popular music and dance moves and even though I have never felt the movements or music of my children copy and dance to be too adult, what is available online is not necessarily G rated - so parental discretion is necessary. Different families will have different opinions about what is right for their children, so it's up to you to decide if you allow access to this free resource in your home. By saying this if you bought the game for your console, Just Dance 2020 has a connection for kids and the section with more material for kids. I found this other Just Dance Kids channel on YouTube, but it's not official so it could be removed at any time. The best for schoolchildren 8 and upSupervision: Parental discretion may be necessary as the Just Dance material available for free on YouTube is not specifically made for children. Instruction method: Follow the long tutorials7. Saskia DansschoolGENERAL INFOSaskia Dansschool Kids is just that - Saskia's Dance School in which the school teacher, Saskia films her students perform simple warm-ups and dance routines and uploads them to YouTube for her students and other children to follow. They have created a playlist of easy dance videos for children and teenagers consisting of a good amount of three to five minutes of follow-up dance routines. OUR EXAMENI found that as my daughter dances, she finds it easy to follow most of what kids do in videos and with the repetition everyone gets better every time. Because these videos come from a real dance school, they give children who can't attend classes a glimpse of what they might expect to learn if they did. Best for School-Aged Children Supervision: Put it on and stay awayMethod from education: Follow the dance.8. Haschak SistersGENERAL INFOIf you haven't heard of it, the Haschak sisters are four singing and dancing sisters between the ages of 13 and 18 and their content really appeals to young girls, tweens and teenagers. Their songs are catchy and they have a YouTube sequel to 6 million subscribers! OUR AVISMy 10 year old girl loves the Haschak sisters and their music, so it was fantastic when we found some real dance tutorials where they break down the steps of their video clips and teach them to you. As their videos were spread over two different channels it own and the company that produces their records, I created this playlist for you on our DanceParent101 YouTube Channel.Best for school-age children Your child should be able to take a break, replay, etc. otherwise you will be needed. Instruction method: Pedagogical tutorials9. Mihran KiakosianClick here to access an organized list of Mihran Kiakosian Kids Lesson videos like this! INFO GENERALMihran Kiakosian is a choreographer, performer, director and more. He has toured with Britney Spears, Madonna and Ricky Martin and has worked with many other muscians. It has its Youtube channel since 2008 and has a pretty robust download schedule on its channel. Not all of his videos are aimed specifically at children, but he has a good amount of them. And for children who are advanced dancers, there are plenty of tutorials on it to challenge them as well. As it doesn't have a playlist specifically for kids check out the playlist I created through the link above if you enjoy his lesson here. OUR AVISMy 10 year old girl enjoyed working through some of the tutorials together on her channel. I really feel like I'm in a class or a lesson where he takes the time to count each step and repeat it at different speeds. Then once you have learned the routine, you can visit another video on his child's class site doing the routine which is a lot of fun! Best for School Age Children Supervision: Your child should be able to take a break, replay, etc. if they want to go back on anything again. Instruction method: Pedagogical tutorials10. ndiLive! GENERAL INFONational Dance Institute (NDI) is a non-profit arts education organization founded in 1976 by ballet star Jacques d'Amboise. Through school partnerships, after-school classes, public performances and teacher training, NDI uses dance as a catalyst to engage children and motivate them to excel in school and in life. OUR AVISAll NDI professors are so inspiring to watch. You can say they love to teach dance and like ndiLive! was filmed during the Carona pandemic, you can see how much they really want to motivate and keep the dance alive in the homes of all their students. You can click here for a full playlist of their ndiLive! Program. Best for School Age Children Supervision: Your child should be able to take a break, replay, etc. otherwise you may be needed. Instruction method: Pedagogical tutorials11. SPAC Learning Library! GENERALECIAL INFOThe SPAC Learning Library is a website developed by the Saratoga Performing Arts Center and contains online video dance classes and music classes and tutorials for children. The SPAC Learning Library is better seen on its website than on Youtube where it has beautifully organized and organized dance classes. OUR AVISThey members of The New York City Ballet among other professionals giving tutorials and instructions in their videos! That should be enough to tell you that it is a quality resource. Although there are not hundreds of videos, there is a lot of variety that you can most prominently see if you are heading to their SPAC Breaks Page.Best for school-aged children (they have one and under the section)Supervision: If your child can't navigate through their website until each lesson, you'll need to help them do so. Born to Move - MillsGENERAL INFOThis workouts are the mills born to move workouts for children that CBC Colchester has placed on their YouTube channel as a free taster to encourage people to come to Leisure World in Colchester and take classes. They do not appear in their entirety on the Born to Move Youtube channel. If you like these courses, then you can sign up for a free trial with them on their website. Please note the videos are sometimes taken down so I apologize if they don't appear. OUR EXAMENI have done some of these dance workouts with my kids and they are a lot of fun, easy to follow. They are a great cardio workout that you are usually constantly moving throughout the videos so they keep the heart rate! Best for school-aged children: each video has an age guideSupervision: Press Play and go away! Instruction method: Follow along the tutorials with lots of verbal instruction. Bonus - The MillsThis video is a short 5 minute workout on the actual Channel The Youtube Mills. The level of production is impressive and it would be a great type of workout puzzle for kids who are in the superheroes and the Avengers franchise. Related ArticlesFor some of the following resources, we could tell you that we think this is the type of program you can put in your living room, then go out to finish your laundry, make dinner or sit down and have a break yourself. We just want to remind you that YouTube and most other free media platforms to provide you with a free service use ads to generate revenue. Before most videos, even when using the YouTube app for children, an ad will appear. Therefore, unless you are a premium subscriber to a service that entitles you to a service without an ad, I advise you to always be at a distance from viewing and hearing what your child sees so that you are aware of what they are exposed to. Second, even if you use Kids YouTube, if your child is watching a dance lesson or a show on a touch screen, it's still a good idea to stay close that kids tend to accidentally and deliberately press the screen propelling them into different content that you might not want them to see. This can happen unintentionally also as YouTube, for example, can present to your child with a whole bunch of related content to watch afterwards, but YouTube is wrong - something we discovered the hard way! We'd love to hear from you... Comment to us and tell us if you have tried any of these dance tutorials and lessons with your children or let us know if you have more to add, we'd love to have your opinion! Entry! Entry!
